

Journal of the Senate

Number 1

Tuesday, April 8, 1980

Beginning the Twelfth Regular Session of the Legislature of Florida convened under the Florida Constitution of 1968, at the Capitol, in the City of Tallahassee, Florida, on Tuesday, the Eighth of April A. D., 1980, being the day fixed by the constitution of the State of Florida for convening the Legislature.

The Senate was called to order by Senator Philip D. Lewis, President of the Senate, at 10:00 a.m. A quorum present.

Prayer by the Most Reverend René H. Gracida, Bishop, Catholic Diocese of Pensacola-Tallahassee:

Almighty God, Eternal Father, God of nations, author of freedom, source of all power, filled with the joy of this holy season we recall the words of your prophet, Isaiah: "The spirit of the Lord God is upon me, because the Lord has anointed me; He has sent me to bring glad tidings to the lowly, to heal the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and release to the prisoners, to announce a year of favor from the Lord and a day of vindication by our God." (61: 1-2)

We your people thank you for the blessings of liberty. May we fulfill the civic and public responsibilities that accompany those blessings. Send on us your spirit as we open this session of the Florida State Legislature. Enable these men and women to work intelligently, perseveringly and conscientiously for the cause of truth and justice, for the good of our communities, our country and our world. Empower them to assist our nation in its grave national and international crises through the decisions they will make here. Bless them and guide them. Amen.

Senator Johnston led the Senate in the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States of America.

The Governor's Address

Alongside some of North Florida's beautiful canopied roads we occasionally find a briar plant called "the nettle".

The nettle is an ugly plant. It bristles with thorns and poison. It also grows in rugged, mountainous country.

The wary mountain climber avoids the loathsome nettle at all costs.

But there comes a time when even the thorny nettle plant can actually mean the difference between life or death.

When a climber has gotten into trouble, has lost his grip on the mountainside, when he is close to tumbling off a sheer cliff, the thorny nettle plant presents a choice universal to all mankind.

It is a concept so dramatic it has become an artifact of the English language.

"Grasping the nettle" is a phrase that graphically describes the painful but unavoidable act of courage necessary to forestall certain disaster.

It is painful. It is very painful.

But we, the leaders of the State of Florida, have got to recognize this fact: Many citizens of our nation and our state feel we're losing the ability to control our own destiny.

A frightening inflation rate grips our economy like an iron vice.

A foreign petro-dictator holds our brothers and our sisters prisoner. He laughs because he thinks we're too soft and too complacent to cure our addiction to his energy.

Even in this nation, which was founded upon individual freedom, well-intended government programs sometimes reach too far into our lives. Too much government strangles our freedom, wastes our money and drowns our ambition in a sea of regulations.

And though the world grows more complicated and more interrelated by the hour, we seem to pay less and less attention to educating our children to deal with that world when their time comes.

Leaders of the State of Florida, there is no time left to seek less painful handholds on that mountain. There are no comfortable ledges within reach, no easy way out of our dilemma.

The time has come for very clear, very far-sighted thinking. The time has come for courageous leadership. The time has come for us to grasp that nettle, and begin climbing back up the mountain.

I say this with no fear whatsoever of overstating the situation: The state of the American economy is so serious, our energy and transportation dilemma so acute that Americans now face the gravest upheaval they have faced since World War II shook this planet.

But I also say this with no fear of overstatement: We are the great-great-grandchildren of the builders of railroads: We are the descendants of men and women who tamed the swamps and ran highways down the keys: We are the heirs to the settlers of Florida's vast palmetto plains.

We are Americans, and we are Floridians, and when we are met with great challenges, we do not falter.

Members of the Legislature, leaders of Florida, we have worked very hard together in the past. We have had our alliances and our differences. When many of our citizens were crying out for property tax relief, you brought forth the $25,000 homestead exemption and I embraced that solution.

Together we fought to ensure its passage, and it did pass. I congratulate you on getting tax relief to those of our citizens who desperately needed it.

My friends, I implore you this morning to share my very grave concerns about the state of the economy in America and in Florida.

We no longer have the time for secondary issues.

I beseech you to join with me in a new spirit of unity and cooperation: Let us close the ranks and do the people's work.

For the first three months of 1980, Florida's economy remained strong. But the country as a whole is probably in for very troubled economic times.

Whether or not America is in for a recession, there is absolutely no question about this: An American's way of life, a Floridian's way of life, will change more in the next ten years than it has in the past thirty.

Government can and government must help our people adjust to a new era. In order to do that, government itself must be competent.

We have already taken great strides in that direction.

Last year when the streets of Miami were torn by gunfire and brutality, we declared war on a deeply imbedded "cocaine conspiracy", and now we're finally beginning to drive those international criminals from our shores.

We are proud of our record of hiring and appointing the handicapped—more women—more blacks, hispanics and other minorities in leadership positions in government. We strongly believe in affirmative action.

We have improved the regulation of our professional communities. The Florida Cabinet through cooperation and hard work is assuming a dynamic leadership role in Florida's government.

We have instituted personnel reform, and combined two functions which should never have been separate: Planning and budgeting.

We are geared up for the future.

We have begun making fundamental changes in the way government collects and spends the people's money.

You should consider again this year several far-reaching, very worthwhile concepts.

Single-member legislative districts would give the people more of a sense of identification in the legislative process. You should offer voters a Constitutional amendment to that effect.

We as leaders need to face head-on the terrible problems of our citizens being forced out of their homes by condominium conversions. I strongly urge that you adopt the legislation proposed by the Department of Business Regulation regarding that matter.

Florida is blessed to have many senior citizens. My wife Adele and I are very concerned that they have the services they need. I urge you to pass legislation which will help them by providing renter relief . . . To assure access to doctors and hospitals to our neediest citizens . . . Better nursing homes . . . and better transportation services.

The Equal Rights Amendment will be our generation's contribution to individual liberty.

It is time the Florida Legislature contributes to our legacy of freedom by ratifying the equal rights amendment.

Over the past several months we have initiated a series of major legislative programs: on energy, fiscal policy, resource management, education, and transportation. These proposals deal with a wide variety of problems and challenges.

But we face a wide variety of problems and challenges.

We must begin to take steps now, both short term and long term, to prepare for Florida's future.

Leaders of the State of Florida, we now have two options: We can act and suffer the pain and ecstasy of leadership or we can leave the arena and allow others to decide our fate. The time has come for all of us to grasp that nettle.

First, I believe the biennial budget is a reasonable, a rational approach to spending the people's money wisely.

However, the real benefits won't be realized for at least another year. It is clear that such a budget gives us time to reflect, to consider past successes and failures, and then make adjustments.

For this year, my commitment to that process is clear. Almost 70% of our new recommendations reflect the decisions you made less than 10 months ago.

There is a common theme in every one of these proposals. These changes must be made because of inflation and to meet our energy needs.

Some of them will require sacrifice. But that should be considered nothing more than an investment for the future.

Last year, we agreed that our budget reserves should be maintained at ten percent of our General Revenue Fund.

I am committed to maintaining an adequate state surplus to meet the people's needs in the event of a downturn in our economy. I will not accept any fiscal plan providing for a surplus of less than 404 million dollars.

I'm overjoyed and I hope you're overjoyed that Washington has finally realized it can't solve all its problems at the currency printing press. Ant it's President Carter's strong leadership that brought it about.

We are closely monitoring budget information from Washington and will continue to work with you to make changes as they become necessary.

Our second short-term goal will be to prepare for an economic downturn in the very sensitive construction industry. Our information indicates that there could be a net loss of 50,000 jobs in that sector by the end of 1980. My concern is immediate. We should appropriate 32.5 million dollars to continue the school maintenance program you authorized last December. By doing that, we can help one area of our economy while at the same time providing for badly needed maintenance.

To further aid our construction economy, we should allow the people to vote on a state housing finance agency proposal, to encourage construction of additional rental apartments and to help our people realize the American dream of owning a home.

I am also proposing that we coordinate and expedite the permitting process to see that no construction project is needlessly strangled by the noose of government regulation. Many of these recommendations are outlined in our resource management program.

A Constitutional amendment allowing tax incentives for new and expanding businesses, and grants to promote the rejuvenation of our older neighborhoods will also help take some of the slope out of the construction downturn.

Tourism is highly vulnerable in an economic downturn. We have already demonstrated during the gas crunch in the summer of 1979 that priming the economic pump through promotion can be highly effective.

Our final short-term goal is to continue to limit the growth of property taxes as we did last year.

I ask you again this year to help protect the people from new taxes caused by higher assessments.

Within the next few months, those measures will help Florida moderate the economic tremors which will surely sweep the rest of the country.

They will not be easy to institute, they will not be universally popular. But if we want to halt that downhill plunge, we're going to have to grasp that nettle and hang on for all we're worth because there may not be another one further down the hill.

And then, after we've halted the plunge, it will be time to begin the long climb back up.

We need to begin examining the role of government, which inadvertently contributes to our economic woes by the expense and the waste of some of our own laws and regulations.

Just last month, when a man wanted to drive a van full of workers the fifty miles from Perry to Tallahassee, he couldn't find out if he needed a license, what kind of license it might be, or who was going to give it to him. He's been driving his route for free because government has kept him from making a profit.

It's very welcome news that the Public Service Commission yesterday granted him a temporary permit to operate his van. But what I want to know is: What about the hundreds of other businessmen who didn't get on the front page with their regulation problems?

The hoops that government forces the businessman to jump through wastes his time, wastes his money and destroys the most precious commodity in the American marketplace, the human spirit.

The next time you sit at your desks considering legislation which will impose more restraints on the free marketplace, remember this: An industry that wants to be regulated is an industry that doesn't want to compete.

The principle here should be: Where the free marketplace will work, let it work. If not, is there some way to get away with less regulation, or more enlightened regulation to accomplish the same goals?

Whenever possible, government itself should stimulate the free enterprise system to be more responsive and less expensive.

The health care field is one arena where the free market is not functioning in the best interests of the people. More than 90 percent of all hospital bills are paid by insurance companies or the government. There is little incentive to keep costs down.

Recently, with no cost to government whatsoever, state government helped formulate the Dade County Health Care Cost Containment Coalition. This group is organizing private businesses and governmental employers to bargain collectively with insurance companies and thus keep medical costs down.

That is a role that government should play whenever it can.

Government regulation has a particularly harmful effect on Florida's changing tourism patterns. More and more visitors are coming to our state by air and thus will have to find surface transportation when they get here. Our international tourists have the same problem.

At a time when the marketplace should be responding to that need, because of government regulation a license for a sight-seeing bus which the government charges $500 for now costs an average of $250,000 on the open market.

In these energy-conscious days, there is absolutely no excuse for government to be restraining more efficient methods of travel.

Of course there are areas where regulation is a must. Protecting the environment, public safety and health all require government attention, particularly with regard to hazardous wastes, and the mining of our natural resources. But that attention should be enlightened, not oppressive.

The energy dilemma—The transportation dilemma—in this nation and state are perhaps the thorniest nettles of this spring season.

They are problems so fundamental, they can be described in geological terms.

The blood and bones of long dead dinosaurs and the remains of giant ferns which fermented under the earth's surface for millions of years are dwindling.

Their residue fueled an industrial revolution. But the end of the petroleum era looms on the horizon.

The oil price squeeze contributes to our cancerous inflation rate, and transfers our wealth to foreign banks.

We in the various state legislatures around the country did a lot of talking in the fifties and the sixties and the seventies about states rights. But in the decade of the eighties we have to realize that states also have responsibilities.

If we in Florida do not get our energy usage under control, the federal government will feel obliged to step in and give us a hand. That hand will come in the form of a burdensome surcharge, weekend closings, boating restrictions, or gas rationing. I challenge you to think of a more unwelcome bureaucratic nightmare than yet one more bureaucracy whose function is to hand out little pieces of paper.

The economic turmoil that would cause in this state would be almost beyond imagining.

We must grasp that nettle once and for all and realize that an American's way of life, a Floridian's way of life, is changing and will continue to change. We have rediscovered the small automobile in this country. We have rediscovered the wood stove and the ceiling fan.

I know there are some questions in these halls as to government's role in helping to finance energy efficiency in the private sector.

I say this to you: The people are aware that they can save money by becoming more energy efficient.

We must move to the fore and lead by incentives, to accelerate the process of change and to help our people adapt more easily and with less disruption.

Our business and residential grant program is designed to put government back in a leadership role in meeting Florida's energy future.

Leaders of Florida, we must reduce our energy usage twenty-five percent by 1990. We may disagree as to the methods, but we must share a common commitment to that goal.

There are other leadership initiatives we can take, and we can take them now.

A surcharge on those who break the speeding laws and waste energy—a gas guzzler tax—and a severance tax on energy sources will all help to put government back in that leadership role.

Florida's sunshine has brought this state great wealth by attracting visitors from all over the world.

As our program makes very clear, that same sunshine can now bring a new form of wealth to our people—solar energy.

If we will face the reality of the end of the petroleum era, if we will conserve now, if we will grasp that nettle now, we can begin to plan for Florida's energy future.

Our transportation dilemma is a function of our energy dilemma.

The Transportation Study Commission, headed by former astronaut Frank Borman, and some of the best minds in the public and private sectors, did an excellent job analyzing our transportation needs. They concluded, as I have, and I am confident you will, that Florida is approaching a crisis in transportation.

I'm not going to tell you that Florida's transportation system is going to disintegrate within twelve months if we fail to act.

But by the end of your next term you will see highway construction all but come to a halt. Interstate construction will be jeopardized. State money will not be available to local governments to purchase buses and other transportation forms.

If there is anyone in these chambers who does not believe that will happen, the first pothole you hit will remind you. Your next late appointment caused by a traffic jam will further make that point.

We must redirect our transportation priorities. We must make our highways more energy efficient. We must provide public transit to those people who no longer can afford to drive their cars to work.

But we must have the funds to begin preparing for our energy future. Funds that do not depend on the unpredictable gasoline consumption habits of our people, but instead upon the cost of building and maintaining that transportation system.

These are some of our other long-term goals:

We must see that Florida diversifies its economy, because we are no longer a parochial beach resort suspended on the south-east corner of the United States.

Florida is already a vibrant commercial and financial center of the world. We should keep those doors open when we consider laws that affect finance and commerce.

Let us make this message clear:

Business is welcome in Florida. Working together we have brought 24,000 additional jobs to our state in the last year—almost twice the number of the previous year.

Lieutenant Governor Wayne Mixson deserves special credit for this accomplishment.

To continue to attract the kind of businesses we want, it will be necessary to provide an educational system that is comparable to the best in the country. Our commitment made last year for improving the quality of our university system, provides 24 million dollars and will move us in that direction.

We must have a university system that will attract top scholars and students from all over the world. We must have a public school system where teachers are paid what they're worth, and we must have school programs that challenge young minds.

The Florida Cabinet has already undertaken a revitalized leadership role in Florida education.

Before we decide to change that system, I propose that we give the cabinet a chance to continue its performance—and I further propose that we increase public education funding by thirteen percent for every student in our state—not because we have money to throw away, but because it's an investment in our future.

Because the bond market is uncertain, we must provide another way for school districts to do away with double sessions.

If the school board wants to—it must have the authority to raise money to build new classrooms.

I propose that this be done.

Thirdly, we need to level out Florida's historical boom-or-bust spending philosophy.

I am again proposing an expenditure limitation plan that will get our state off that irresponsible roller coaster ride once and for all.

In November of 1979 we asked you to help stabilize Florida's economy by providing a constitutional spending limit for state government.

Our February 1979 budget and our budget adjustments this session, again, reflect this philosophy:

State general revenue spending should be linked to growth in population and the rate of inflation. Florida must save money during the good times in order to continue vital programs during bad years.

That is a concept compelling enough to be institutionalized in our Constitution.

Fourth, government spending and government growth must be controlled.

At the same time, government must become more streamlined and more competent. It will take that kind of government to carry out the programs I have outlined today—the programs essential to meet Florida's economic future.

Our Inspector General's office is working daily to increase competence in government.

Further, I make this pledge to you today:

By the end of my term, I intend to have limited the size of state government to no more than one percent of the population of Florida.

Ladies and gentlemen of the Florida Legislature, most of you know me as an optimist, a believer in tomorrow and tomorrow.

But I must tell you today with every ounce of conviction I can muster—that optimism alone will not see us through in this very complex—sometimes perilous world.

Ours is a sacred trust.

We must grasp that nettle, and we must act more carefully than we ever have before, or our future will begin to - - crumble - - before our very eyes.

I believe that you are up to the challenge. I believe that you are ready to join with me, to roll up our sleeves, and get down to the very serious business of preparing for Florida's future in this troubled world.

I believe you are ready to grasp that nettle with me and to begin to pull ourselves back towards the summit. It will not be easy, but climbing upwards has never been easier than sliding backwards.

There are no comfortable ledges to rest upon. There are no easy paths up or down that mountain.

But I tell you this: This summit has its own rewards. The air is clear there. The sky is electric blue.

And even the weariest climber can see for miles and miles and miles.

Following the Governor's address, the committee previously appointed escorted the Governor from the rostrum and from the House chamber, followed by the Lieutenant Governor, members of the Cabinet and Justices of the Supreme Court.

Abstained from Voting

I have abstained from voting on this measure (CS for SB 334) in view of the fact that I and my family have an interest in a Cemetery Company. Although there is nothing in the act that necessarily inures to the benefit of a cemetery, I wish to avoid any semblance of a conflict.
